About the LPB TTT Course

The Lost Person Behaviour Course has been taught to SAR professionals around the world and is currently used by the governments around the world for standard instruction. Participants will attend the full Lost Person Behaviour program, as well as receive in-depth instruction that goes above and beyond the actual course. Participants will walk away with new practical knowledge, a license to instruct the course, and a wealth of material, including Lost Person Behaviour Instructor's Resource DVD, Lost Person Behavior text, Lost Person Behavior Workbook, Instructor notes and Practical guide. The LPB TTT class will require the full three-days.

The ideal student has both search and search management experience. The class will not devote much time to instructional techniques, thus the participant should feel comfortable instructing. While the goal is to produce instructors, anyone is welcome since the knowledge you gain could help save a life.

About the LPB Course

Students who do not wish to become instructor's or who cannot dedicate a full three-days are still welcome to attend the first two days of class which will focus on the delivery of the actual LPB class. They will also receive the LPB text and workbook.

Course is limited to 24 participants.
